

The Ninth and Fifth Circuits May Limit Coverage under the Computer Fraud Provision of Your Insurance

By J. David Thurber | General Counsel and Litigation Manager

Two Appellate court cases in 2016 found in favor of the insurance companies in denying coverage for the alleged third party fraud perpetrated on two companies. In both cases, the companies sent a substantial amount of money via EFT to criminals after receiving email directions purporting to be a business vendor.

Our own General Counsel and Litigation Manager, David Thurber, delves deeper into both of these two cases, analyzing how the courts came to the decision to deny coverage, and what this means for network security/cyber liability coverage.

More Performance Measures from CMS

By J. David Thurber | General Counsel and Litigation Manager

Back in July 2016, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) announced six new criteria that will be affecting 5-star ratings on its consumer-based nursing home comparison website. Three of these measures are based on data submitted by hospitals, which will mark the first time measures are included that are not based on self-reported data from nursing homes.

General Counsel and Litigation Manager, David Thurber, provides a refresher on these six new quality measures.
